

Joanna D. Lovering

Joanna is a leadership and presence consultant who helps companies engage, develop and retain their pipeline of female leaders. She believes that when companies invest in and promote women, they can achieve unrivaled results. Her expertise is implementing and facilitating programs that teach women the leadership skills that other people think are “unteachable,” like presence, confidence, and self-advocacy.

With over 15 years of leadership development experience at companies including JetBlue, Microsoft, L'Oréal USA, Tiffany & Co., Red Bull North America, lululemon, and Daily Burn, Joanna has worked extensively in both corporate and startup settings, leading teams as large as 85. She's proud to be a champion for women leaders and to partner with companies from all sectors who believe in the necessity of female leadership as passionately as she does.

Joanna is proud to hold a Master's degree from Columbia University in Social-Organizational Psychology and a Bachelor's degree from Carnegie Mellon University in Drama Directing and Psychology, where she serves as President of the Alumni Association and on the Board of Trustees.